Seniors:

The path has been rough and long; the stones in the road have been many. Learning as you have journeyed on, the years have been lived and left behind you. Only a few more steps to walk and you will have reached tomorrow. Only you, as Seniors, have the power, the knowledge, and the will to enter tomorrow's world and make it one of progress. For you have successfully completed an era of your lives — moments which you shall never again be able to recapture, and shall cherish for years to come. We, the Rhorea Staff, want you to have an unforgettable remembrance of these moments. We give you this year; we give you this Rhorea.

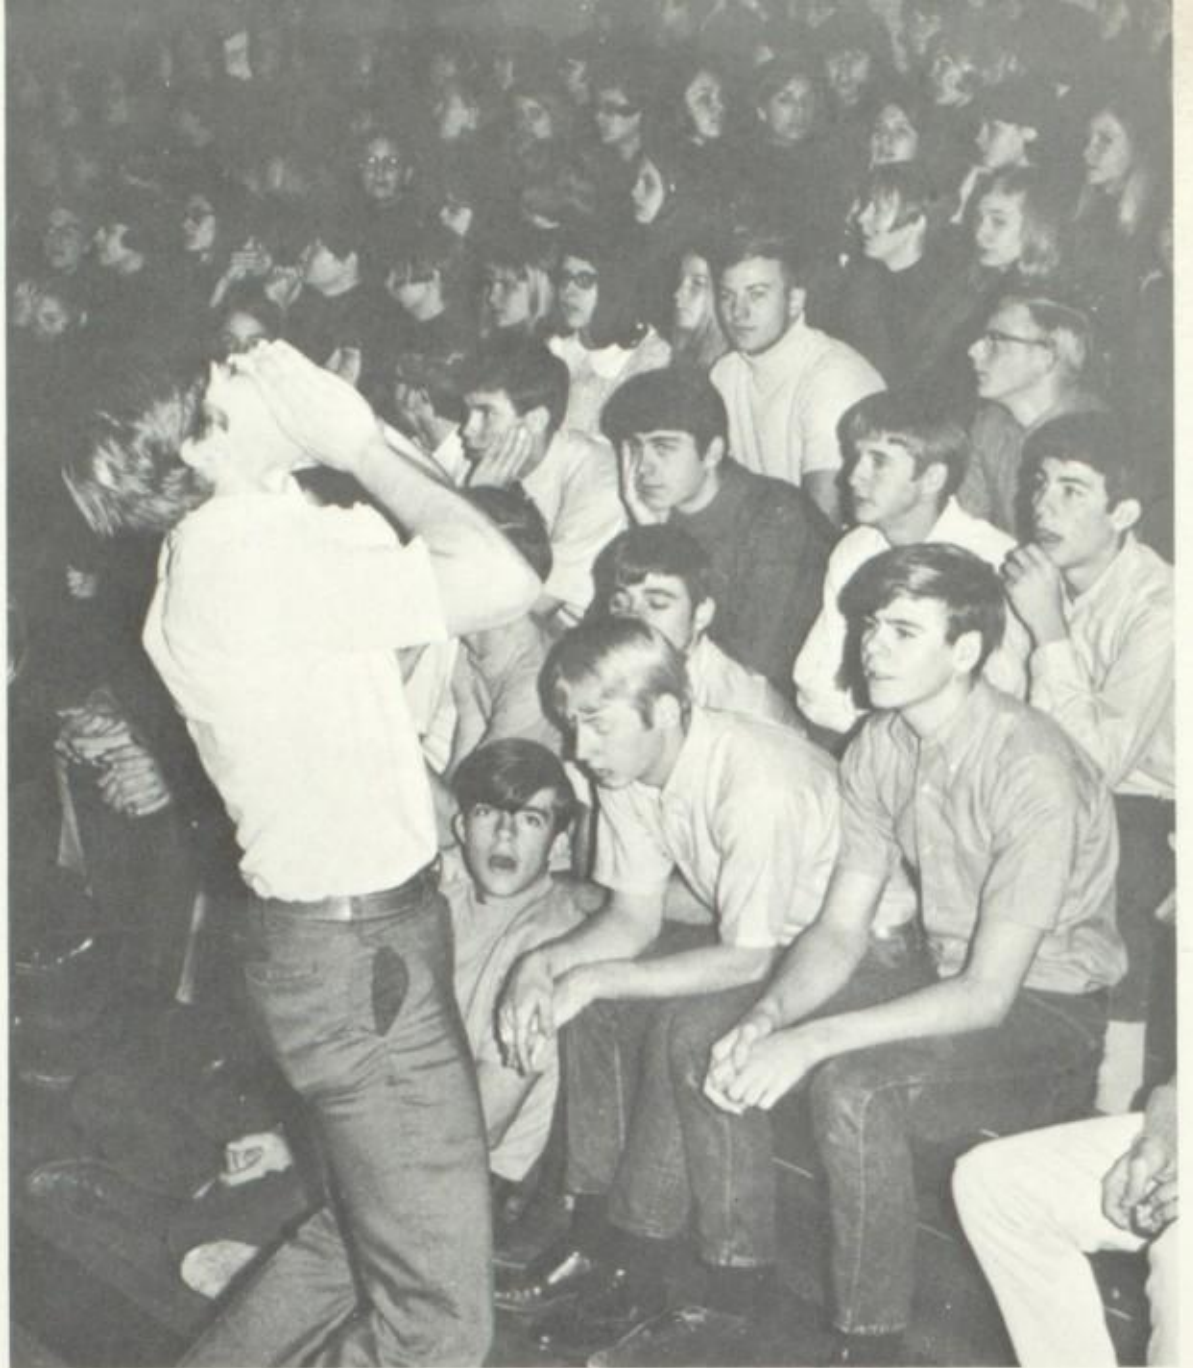

1970 — One Moment In Eternity

A moment of friendship . . .

A time to be heard . . .

Just once will a moment be lived

A moment of glory . . .

A time to bulge ...

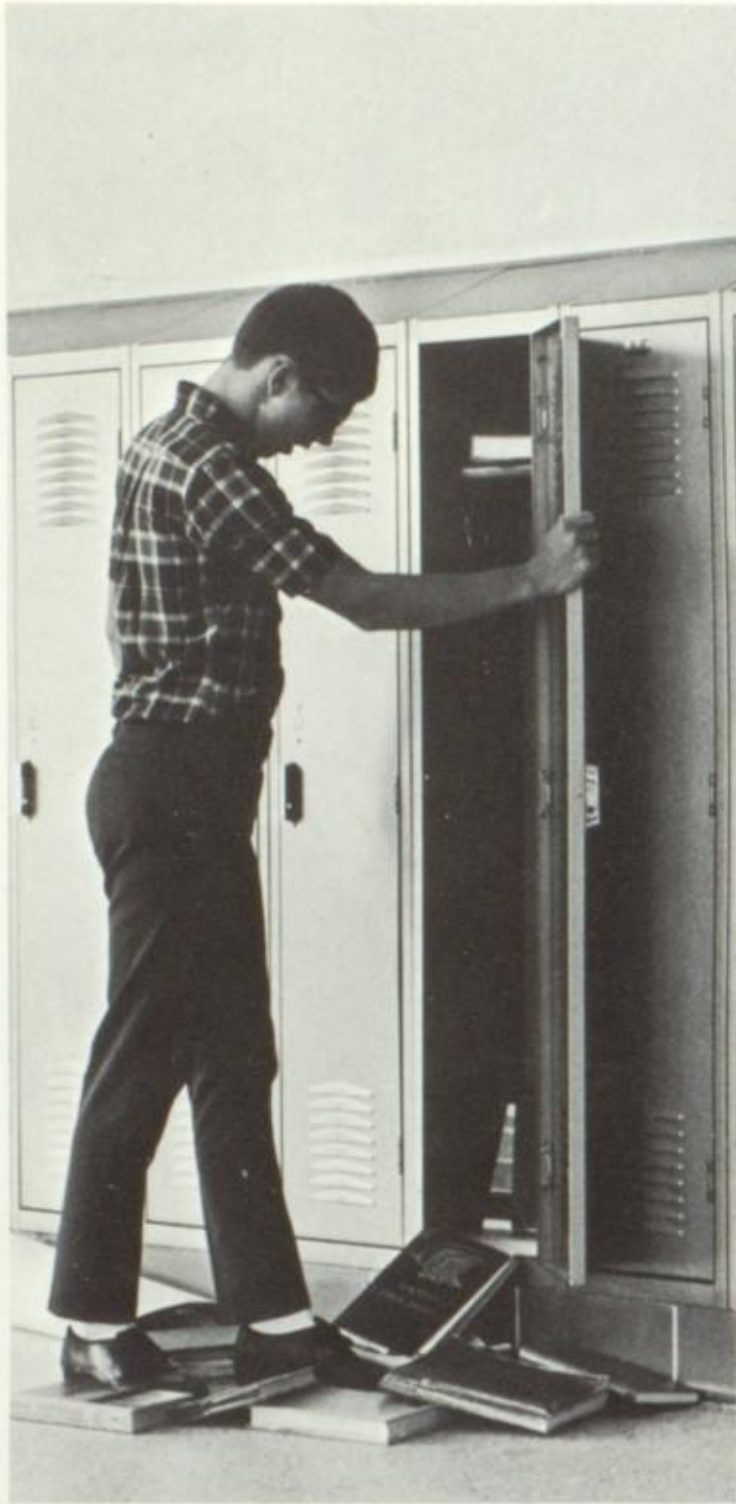

in a lifetime

A time for intermission ...

A moment to ham.

Frustration is books on the floor seconds before the tardy bell rings...

... it is a shower between classes...

... it is meeting a bully on a crowded staircase...

A moment of frustration

... it is the fall of a new idea.

Joy is making a perfect waffle . . .

and a moment of joy

. . . it is spirit.

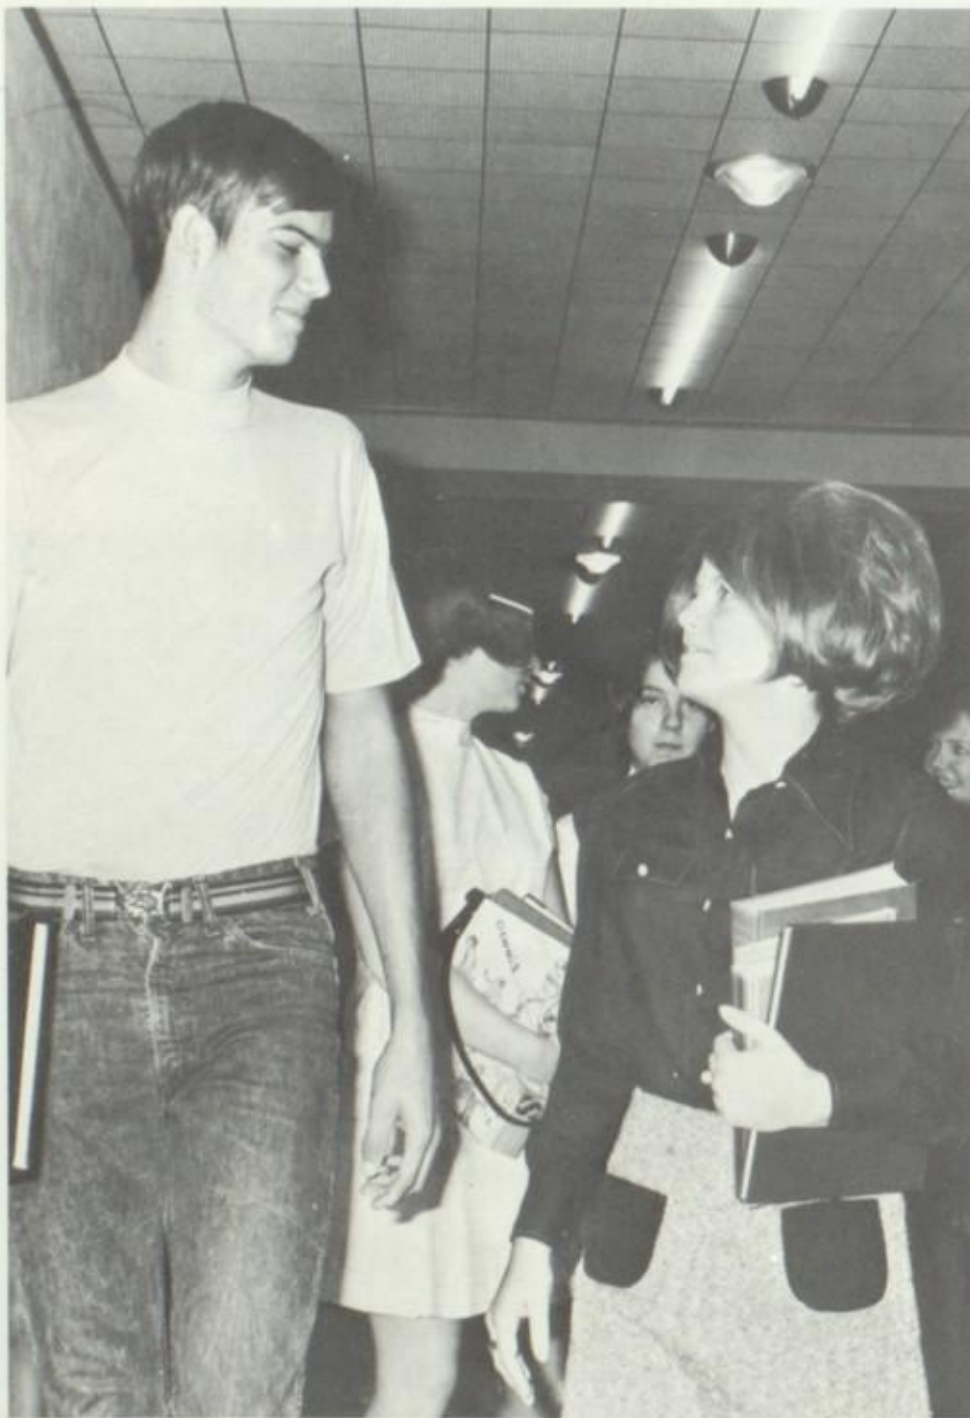

. . . it is a friendly smile . . .

... it is togetherness ...

Love is tenderness ...

... it is someone to cherish.

A moment of love

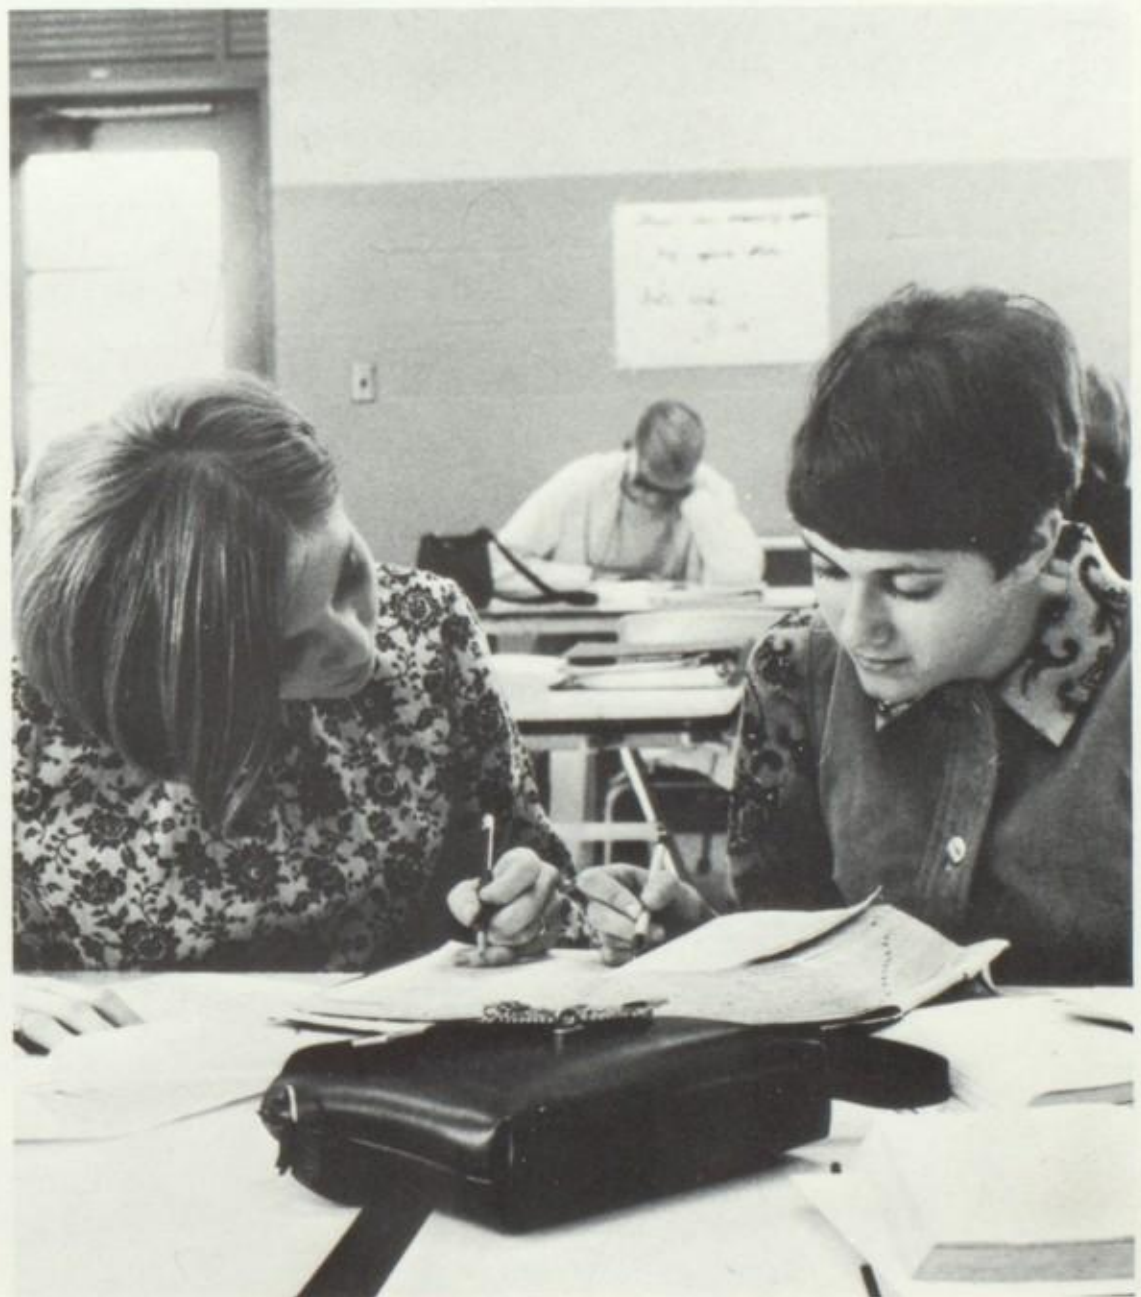

Friendship is admiration ...

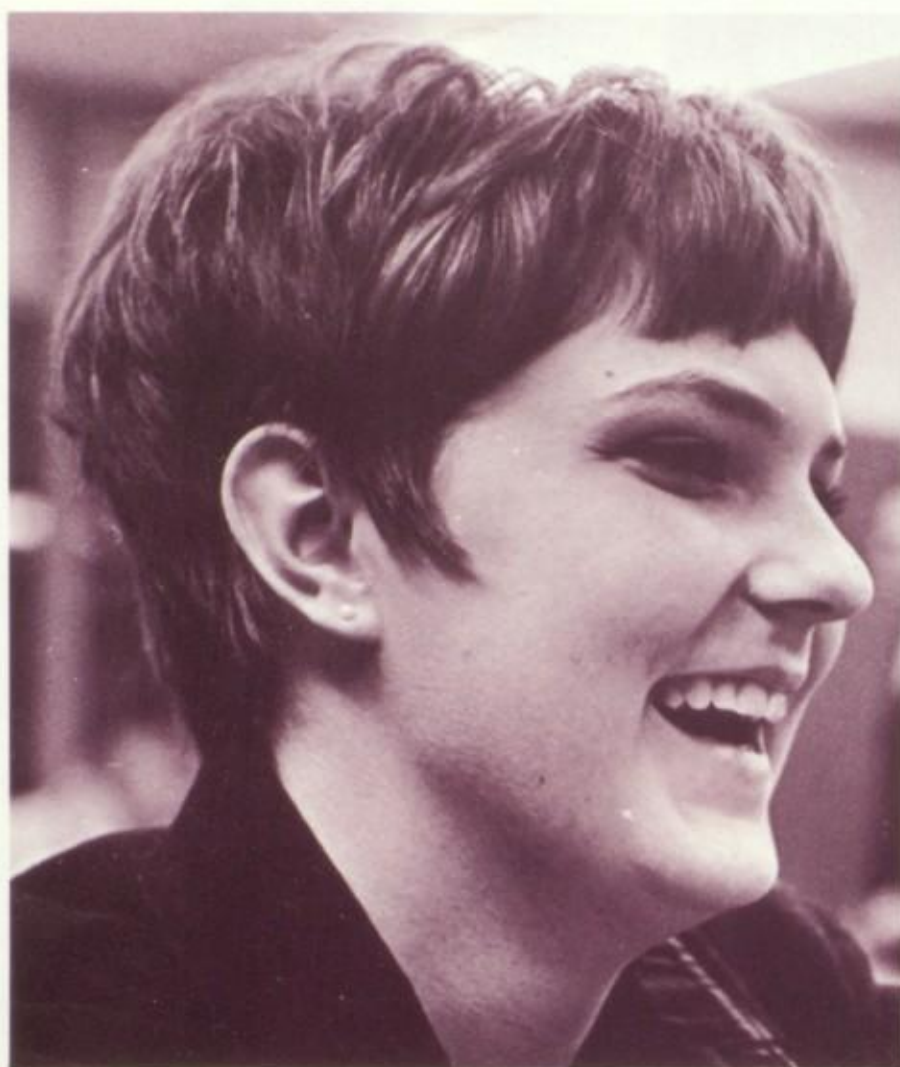

through friendship

... it is universal ...

... it is something to be shared.

A moment to clown

These brief moments have truly been ones to remember.

Faculty

Students work with administration, faculty

School was a situation of learning, research, concentration, and study in a number of areas. Qualified teachers presented to us ideas about English, speech, social science, music, and art. As we attended classes, we realized that each combination of students and teachers created a special atmosphere.

Cooks and custodians care for students

In the kitchen and in the cafeteria, Mrs. Helen Hayes and her staff tackle the task of providing nourishment for over 1100 students. Their efforts resulted in a nutritious and well-balanced noon-time meal.

Behind the scenes, led by Mr. Alvin Grunz, the custodians managed to keep GBHS attractive. From unlocking doors, to cleaning, they performed a multitude of necessary duties.

LaDonna Denny restores the cafeteria to its original condition after the noon rush.

Daring custodians go to great heights to keep the student body well-lighted.

Organizations

Stuco stimulates understanding through democracy.

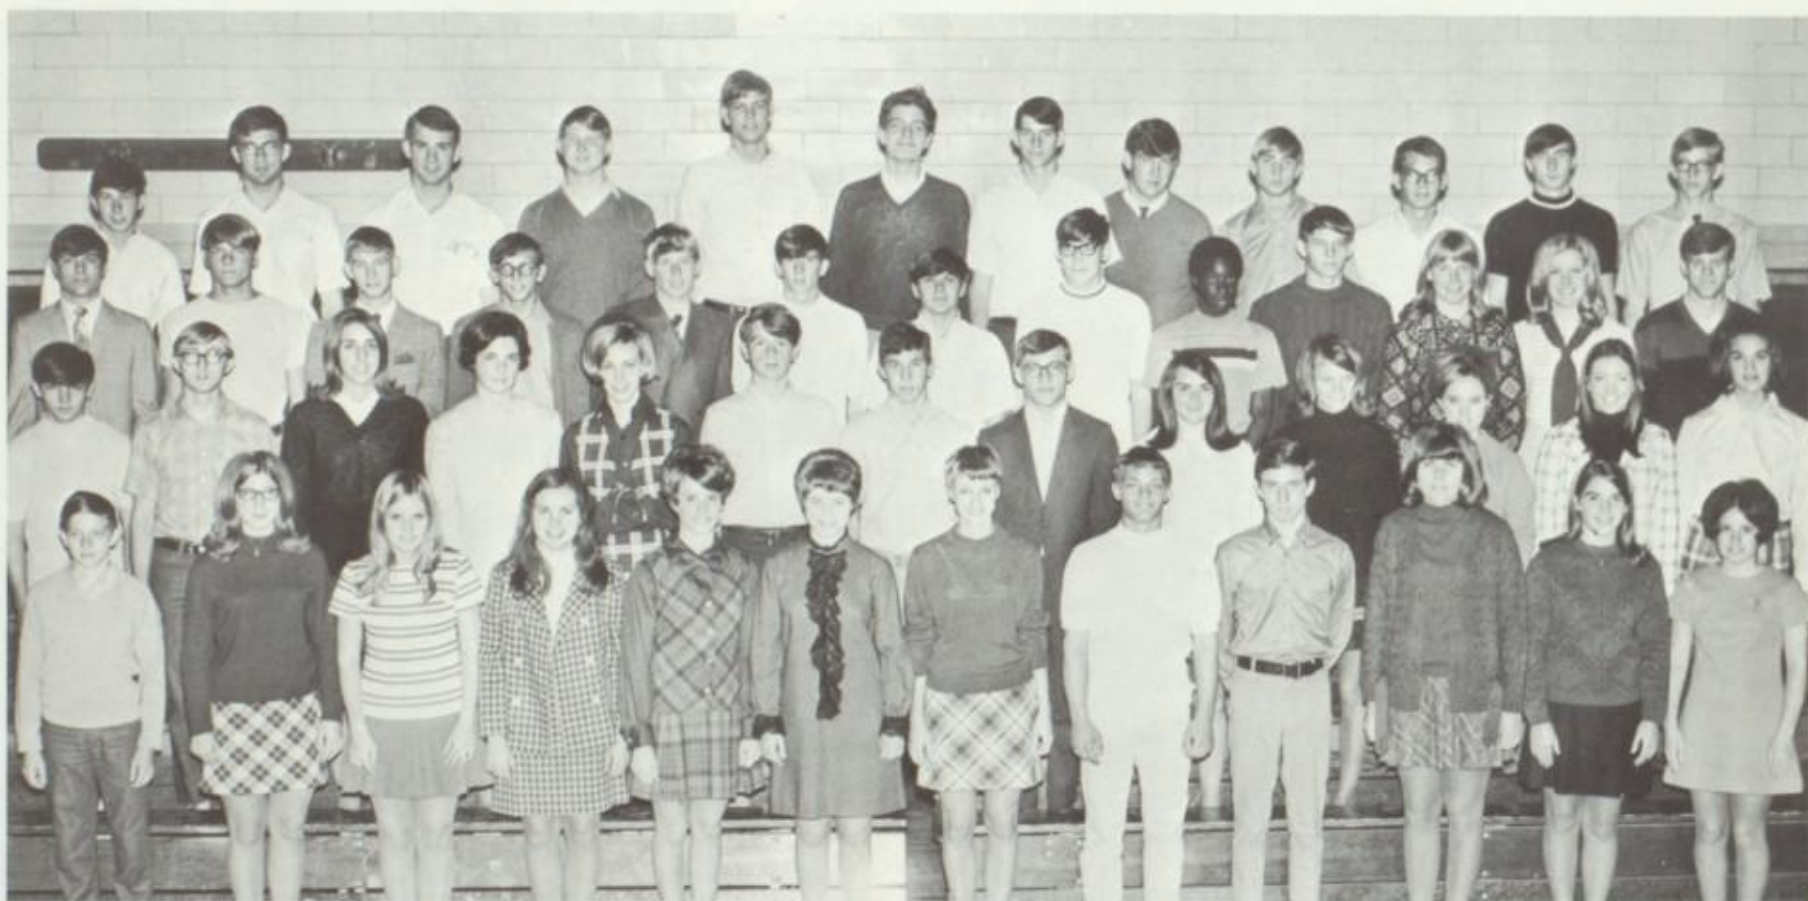

With careful planning and able leadership, the Student Council performed a dual role by providing a vital link between students and administration and by introducing the representatives to the problems and pleasures of accomplishing their goals.

Student Council Committee, the basic organizational block, helped build a sound program of school and extracurricular activities. Initiating action, this organization prepared meeting agendas and reviewed matters of school importance.

Student Council was not a government but a melting pot for students' suggestions and a organizer of extracurricular programs.

Cheerleaders light the fire of spirit.

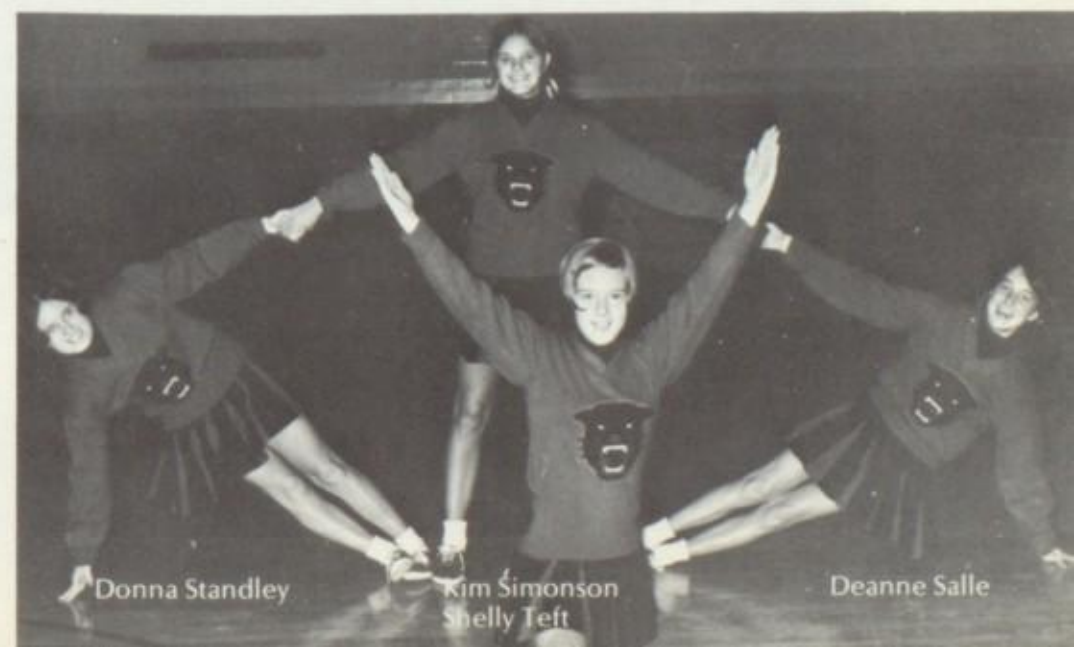

If the Pep Club lost its urge to yell or the team faltered, the cheerleaders administered inoculations of pep by cheering even more enthusiastically! Their eagerness, as if contagious, spread quickly, even to the spectators. Their duties, however, reached beyond athletics to maintaining an example for the school in all activities. They practiced diligently during the week and attended one clinic at Dodge City.

This year the Juniors and Sophomores had a better chance of attaining B-team cheerleader. Eight girls were chosen, four to cheer for football and wrestling and four to cheer for basketball.

Pep Club strived to make the best year yet

Mascots have always kept up the spirit of all athletic teams. This year Pep Club took on the project of making a stuffed panther. A contest urged students to give him a name. "Spirit" was chosen from a number of entries and Chris Giles had the winning original idea. For the prize she won a 1970 Rhorea.

Everything went great until a few individuals hid Spirit in the loft of the auditorium. It was all meant to be fun and games until the party involved realized his worth. Spirit was finally returned and he lead us through a great year win, lose or draw.

Spirit was well taken care of by Chris Doherty and Brenda Engle.

through involvement.

While upholding ideals of brotherhood in their activities, Kayettes, a major service club, maintained past records of achievement by donating time and talents to aid their fellow citizens. Homeroom periods never failed to find Kayettes busily working in their club. Whether it was voting or planning their activities, each Kayette meeting lended a colorful spark to an academic school day.

Projects posed hours of work for Kayettes. Meals for Millions fed thousands of hungry mouths. Kayettes addressed donation envelopes for the March of Dimes. And those who sold holly danced at the Holly Ball.

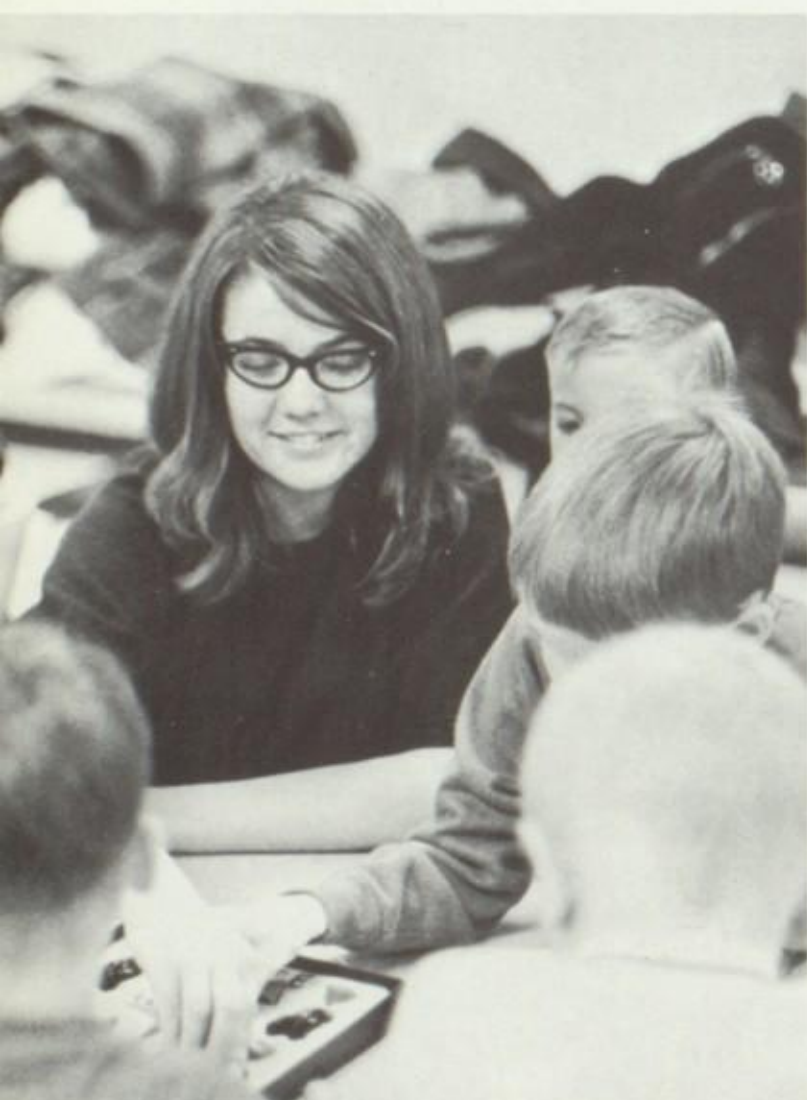

There's only one way to lose weight. Ask Jeanne Steinbacher, Debbie Grimm, Vicki Morrison, and Brenda Adams.

Mr. Gowdy finds out what Kayette Sweetheart is all about.

Test Tubes of money from Sue Dunn, Lisa Schumacher, Pam Jurgensen, Debby Bird, Eileen Doonan and Sharon Stevens bought meals for millions.

FHA "Makes someone happy," Devote efforts to a variety of services.

Many were stung by the arrow of Cupid as he sat in his carriage.

F.H.A.'s platform of service was well established to give girls an insight on home economics. The cabinet provided equilateral balance for growing as a person, growing in friendship, and growing in knowledge as future homemakers. These goals were attained in activities ranging from Trick or Treating with the retarded children, a party for underprivileged children, and visits to the old folks home.

Under the guiding hand of Mrs. Fern Atkinson and Mrs. Grace Blum, Spanish Club members experienced self-satisfaction in helping a needy family throughout the year. They had fun participating in their various money-making projects which bought the food and clothes the family needed.

Each meeting enriched the understanding of Spanish culture and customs. All 192 members enjoyed the new "Spanish Fiesta," a news-publication of the Spanish III class. This paper was written in Spanish and told of the various school events.

JCL members do as the Romans do.

Members of the Junior Classical League started off the year with a great deal of enthusiasm as a club meeting was held so Jane Solso could tell of her experiences in Greece the preceding summer. At this event, interested students learned requirements of the club and activities in which members could participate. They found that the only prerequisites were at least one year's study of Latin and an interest in Latin customs and culture. The JCL State Convention, an annual event held in Sterling, made up one of the main events of the year. The Roman Banquet goes back into ancient times by reliving the customs and social life of the Roman people.

French Club follows new trends in France.

To keep up a striving organization, French Club stressed the idea of culture.

The picnic in November proved to be a closed-in event. It had rained all day but the enthusiasm of those who attended the picnic was not dampened. At various times during the year French Club held several bake sales. At their meetings they had reports on French trends and speakers that spoke of France.

Key Club hits the keynote in services.

Members of the Key Club built their activities on a cornerstone of service to the school and community. They strove to uphold the ideals of brotherhood in all their dealings and gained a broader prospective as members of an international organization.

Interested in the qualities of good citizens and successful business men, they listened to guest speakers from many trades and professions. One of the Key Club's on-going projects is making money to purchase a pair of black panthers, mascots of Great Bend High School, for the Britt Spough Zoo.

D.E. students receive on-the-job training

Distributive Education is a program in sales and marketing in which students receive on-the-job training in addition to classroom instruction. A D.E. student has two required vocational courses and is then placed in a business to gain work experience which will aid him in future employment.

The Distributive Education class participates in community service projects and also fund raising projects. The proceeds from these projects are used to attend state and national contests, and for the annual employer-employee banquet.

Lisa Furrey arranges the display case to add interest to the Commons Area.

O.E. prepares students for office employment

Office Education is the course taken by the students in the Cooperative Distributive Education Program who are employed in offices. These students attend school in the morning and report to a regular office position in the afternoon.

As special projects the class has helped with an auto license survey for the Chamber of Commerce and assisted the Red Cross Tuberculosis Association with the TB Christmas Seal mailing. The students also compete in state and national contests.

Carol Morse gets an opportunity to work with a computer while employed at Automatic Data Processing.

Sandy Goad works with the dictaphone, one of many secretarial training devices.

She Sharks produce splashing show

This year She Sharks was not an ordinary assembly of swimmers. They were advanced swimmers selected at the beginning of the year from a most competitive list of hopefuls.

After being selected, the girls trained rigorously. They did exercises; they spent long hours in the water executing various stunts and strokes.

The highlight of the year's work was the show entitled "Soundtracks of the 60's," given in March. The girl's dedicated work produced a most decorative show which was partially financed by selling sweatshirts and T-shirts. Mrs. Jane Ferguson sponsored She Sharks.

For their community service project, the She Sharks scrubbed and shined the monument in Lafayette Park.

Three hopefuls for She Sharks, Pam Rowland, Lynne Adee, and Jeanne Ochs, demonstrate their ability to do a back dolphin.

Monthly meetings show techniques of teaching to members.

The Future Teachers of America was a very active club this year. With 281 members it was the largest boy and girl organization in the school!

The main purpose of F.T.A. was to encourage members to follow a teaching career. A time set aside for teaching was provided by F.T.A.; all senior members of the club were allowed to student teach at the local elementary schools. Working through F.T.A., students were also obtained for tutoring shut-in high school students. The club prepared favors for teachers at different times throughout the year.

Sponsoring F.T.A., Mrs. Trowbridge and Mrs. Smith helped in making it highly successful.

Future Farmers of America focus on agricultural science

To F.F.A. farming was very much alive. They promoted the vocation of farming through their club by judging at hog and cattle shows throughout the state. These conventions and contests taught F.F.A. members the good ideas behind farming.

Selling calendars and Christmas candles financed several boys so they could attend conventions and judging contest. Two dinners were held during the year to honor the F.F.A., one dinner set aside for parents and son and one for the members alone.

A Capella Choir sells buttons to boost spirit

For the first time in GBHS history, the A Capella choir sold Panther booster buttons. This project was so successful that the choir boasted a complete sell-out in record-breaking time.

Choir kicked off its musical year with an early fall concert. The Christmas spirit was highlighted by the caroling party and the traditional concert, "This is Noel."

Also in keeping with tradition, Choir received I ratings at the State Music Festival, gave a spring concert, and performed their musical repertoire for the University of Kansas Music Department.

Under the direction of Mr. Ken Shaheen, the A Capella choir continued its mark of excellence in fine musicianship and good standing in the school and community.

Choir officers Debbie Bombardier, program chairman, Perry Scheuerman, robe chairman, Chris Keller, vice-president, and Charles Baxter, president, reflect on the success of the Panther button sale.

'69-'70: Birth of Pops Choir

New to GBHS ears this year was the harmonizing of the specially organized Pops Choir. Created by Mr. Ken Shaheen, the group was selected from the A Capella Choir and practiced every morning at 7:30. Besides singing popular songs, they also specialized in dance routines worked out by various members of the group. The purpose of the group was for entertaining the community and for strengthening the ensemble program.

Practice as a vocal unit makes perfect pitch

Sophomore Girls' Glee Club met everyday to practice as a vocal unit. The activities of the group consisted of a fall concert, a Christmas caroling party, an ensemble program, and a spring concert.

The Glee Club was under the direction of Mrs. Jenny Lynn Allford. The numerous activities of the group may have been due to her active spirit which was demonstrated in her ability to sing, direct, and play the piano simultaneously.

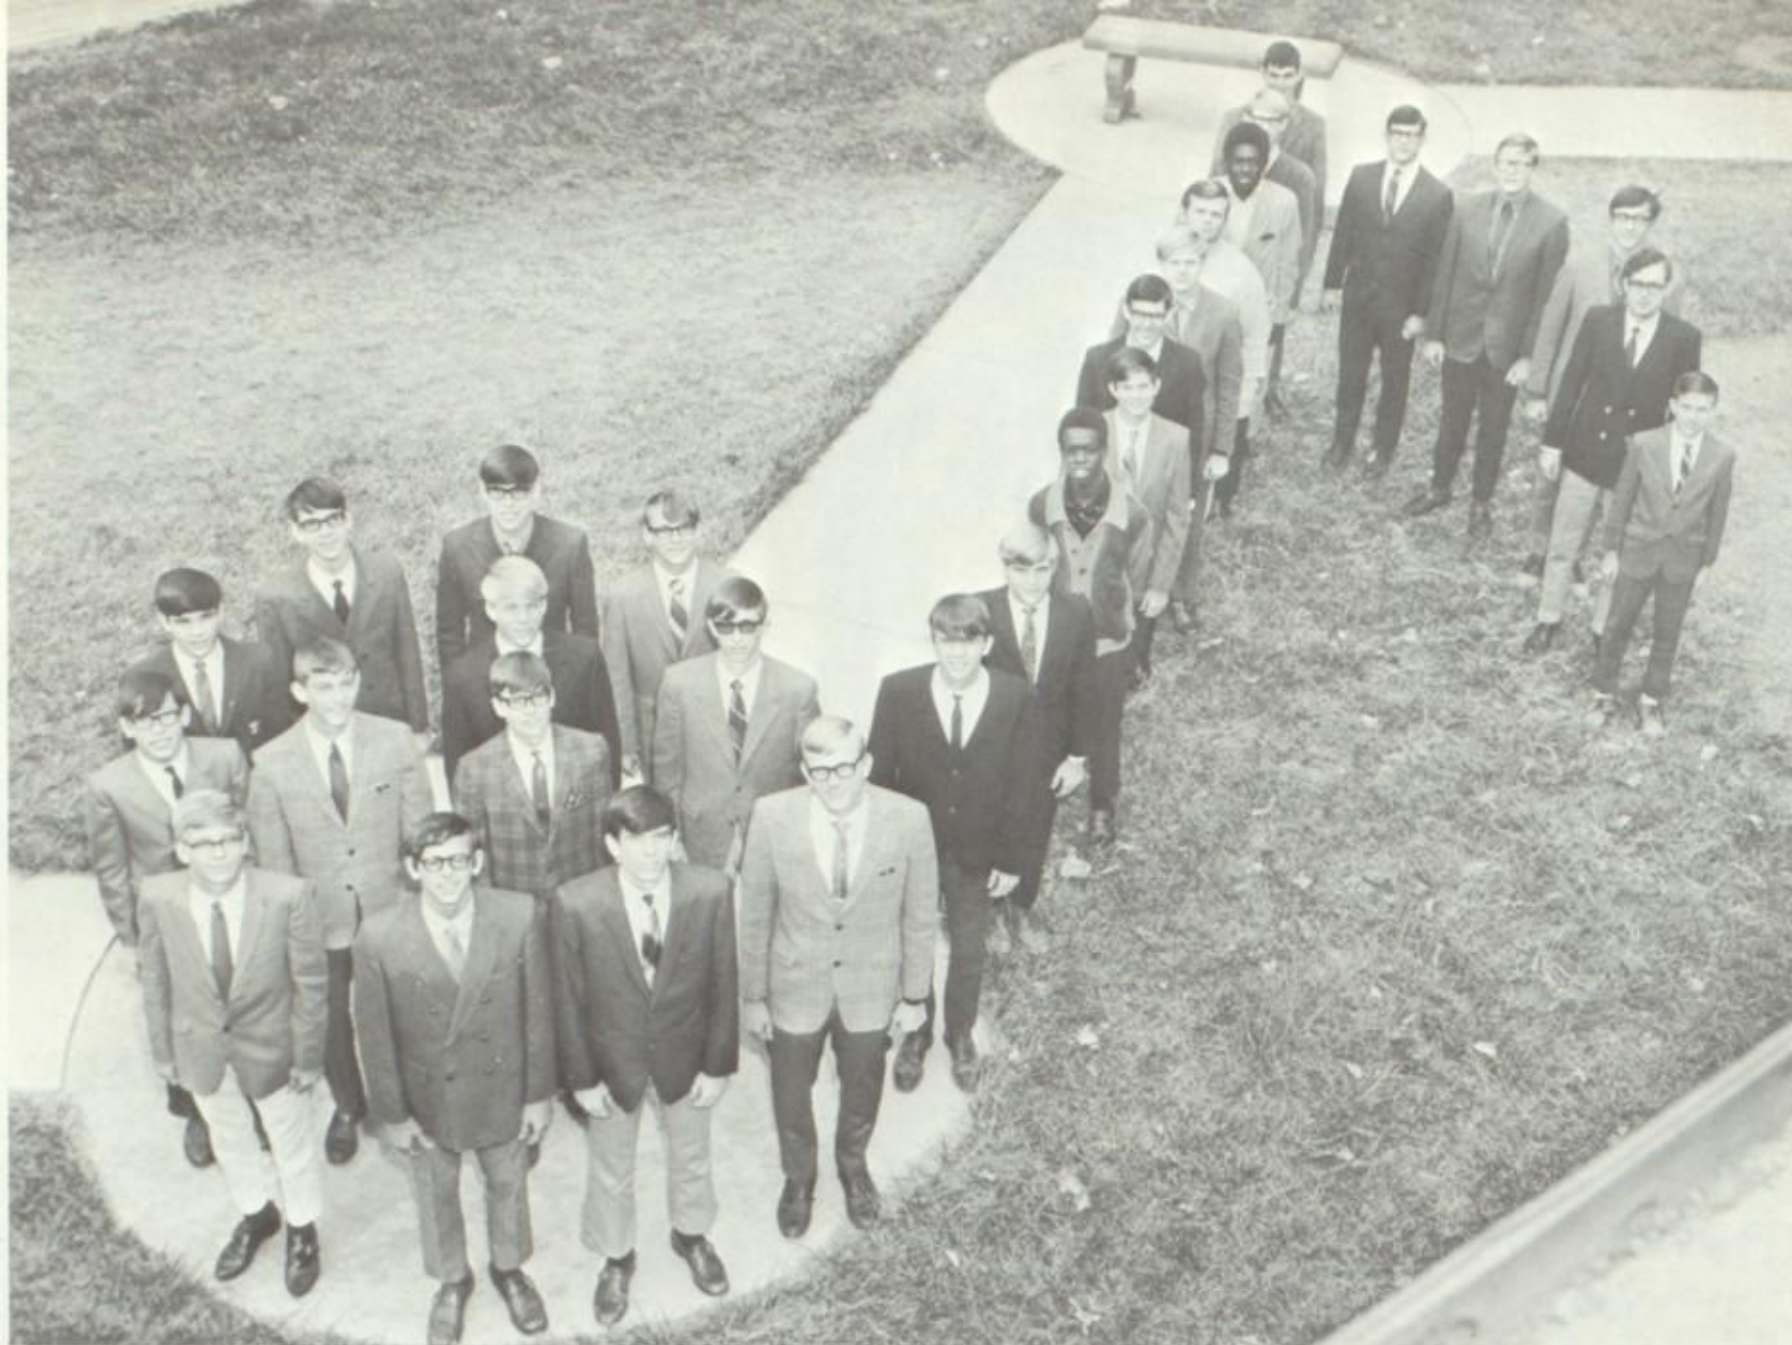

With poise and precision, Mrs. Allford directed her all girl glee club.

... and to make each performance a success.

1970 proved to be a profitable and exciting year for the GBHS Band. The highlights of the year included the new red and black uniforms, a trip to Wichita State University for the Marching Band Festival, and the privilege of performing during half-time at the Sterling Bowl on Thanksgiving Day. Other performances included the Winter Concert in February and the Spring Concert in May which featured the trumpet player of the "Tonight Show", Clark Terry. Besides all of these special events, they also performed for the many admiring Panther fans, during half time at all home games.

Staff revolutionized: "Best yearbook ever"

The 1969-70 RHOREA staff broke much of previous tradition and cast a new slant on yearbook journalism. The staff conducted a person-to-person sales campaign that set an all time record for yearbook sales. Each individual on the staff dedicated many long hours to present the student body with the "best yearbook ever."

Extra: Panther Tales goes weekly

Talent, hard work and determination established the Panther Tales as a weekly publication for the first time in GBHS history. Under the guiding hand of Mr. John Mohn, the Panther Tales staff gave the newspaper a new look. Better pictures, eye-catching headlines, and well written articles combined to produce a more sophisticated, smoother reading newspaper. Meeting deadlines for a weekly newspaper required many hours of outside work. The staff averaged two nights weekly at first and countless hours after school. The nucleus of the paper content was the deep thought put into the controversial editorials and the selling and financing the Ad. staff did each week. The experience gained in every facet of newspaper work will be an advantage to the staff in future work.

Panther Tales staff members Allan Peters, Ken Blair, Doug Thurman, and Larry McLaughlin prove their "power of persuasion" with a sale to Bob Proffitt.

Bodies in our cellar

In the final production of the year, the Senior Class presented the three act comedy, ARSENIC AND OLD LACE, by Joseph Kesselring, under the direction of Miss Paulette Logue.

The living room of the old Brewster home in Brooklyn was just as Victorian as the two sisters, Abby and Martha Brewster, who occupied the house with their nephew, Teddy. Another nephew, Mortimer Brewster, a theater critic, became very perplexed when he learned that his charitable aunts' favorite pastime was mixing a special recipe of elderberry wine and arsenic that brought to an end the illustrious lives of lonely old men.

Windows, windowseats, cellars, and an insane family provide many laughs for the persons who couldn't believe that homicidal mania could be such great fun.

Teddy's bugle blowing at the top of San Juan Hill is disapproved of by Officers Brophy and Klein.

"Don't drink that wine! Do you want to die?" screams Mortimer to Mr. Gibbs as Aunt Abby attempts to calm him down.

Laura Secord, Tracy Ward, and Denise Carpenter seem to have a question that they hope Mr. MacDonald will be able to answer.

Brad Searle is showing Robby Dove that he has found his man, Arlen Brack, who is conversing with Laura Secord and the night club dancer, Tracy Ward. Denise Carpenter and John Duncan are also pictured.

"Pillow Talk" poses a party line puzzle

With the buzz of a telephone and a peal of laughter, "Pillow Talk" opened the curtain on the 1969 — 1970 dramatic season. Telephones, doorbells, and talent galore were combined to produce a pleasing and polished performance.

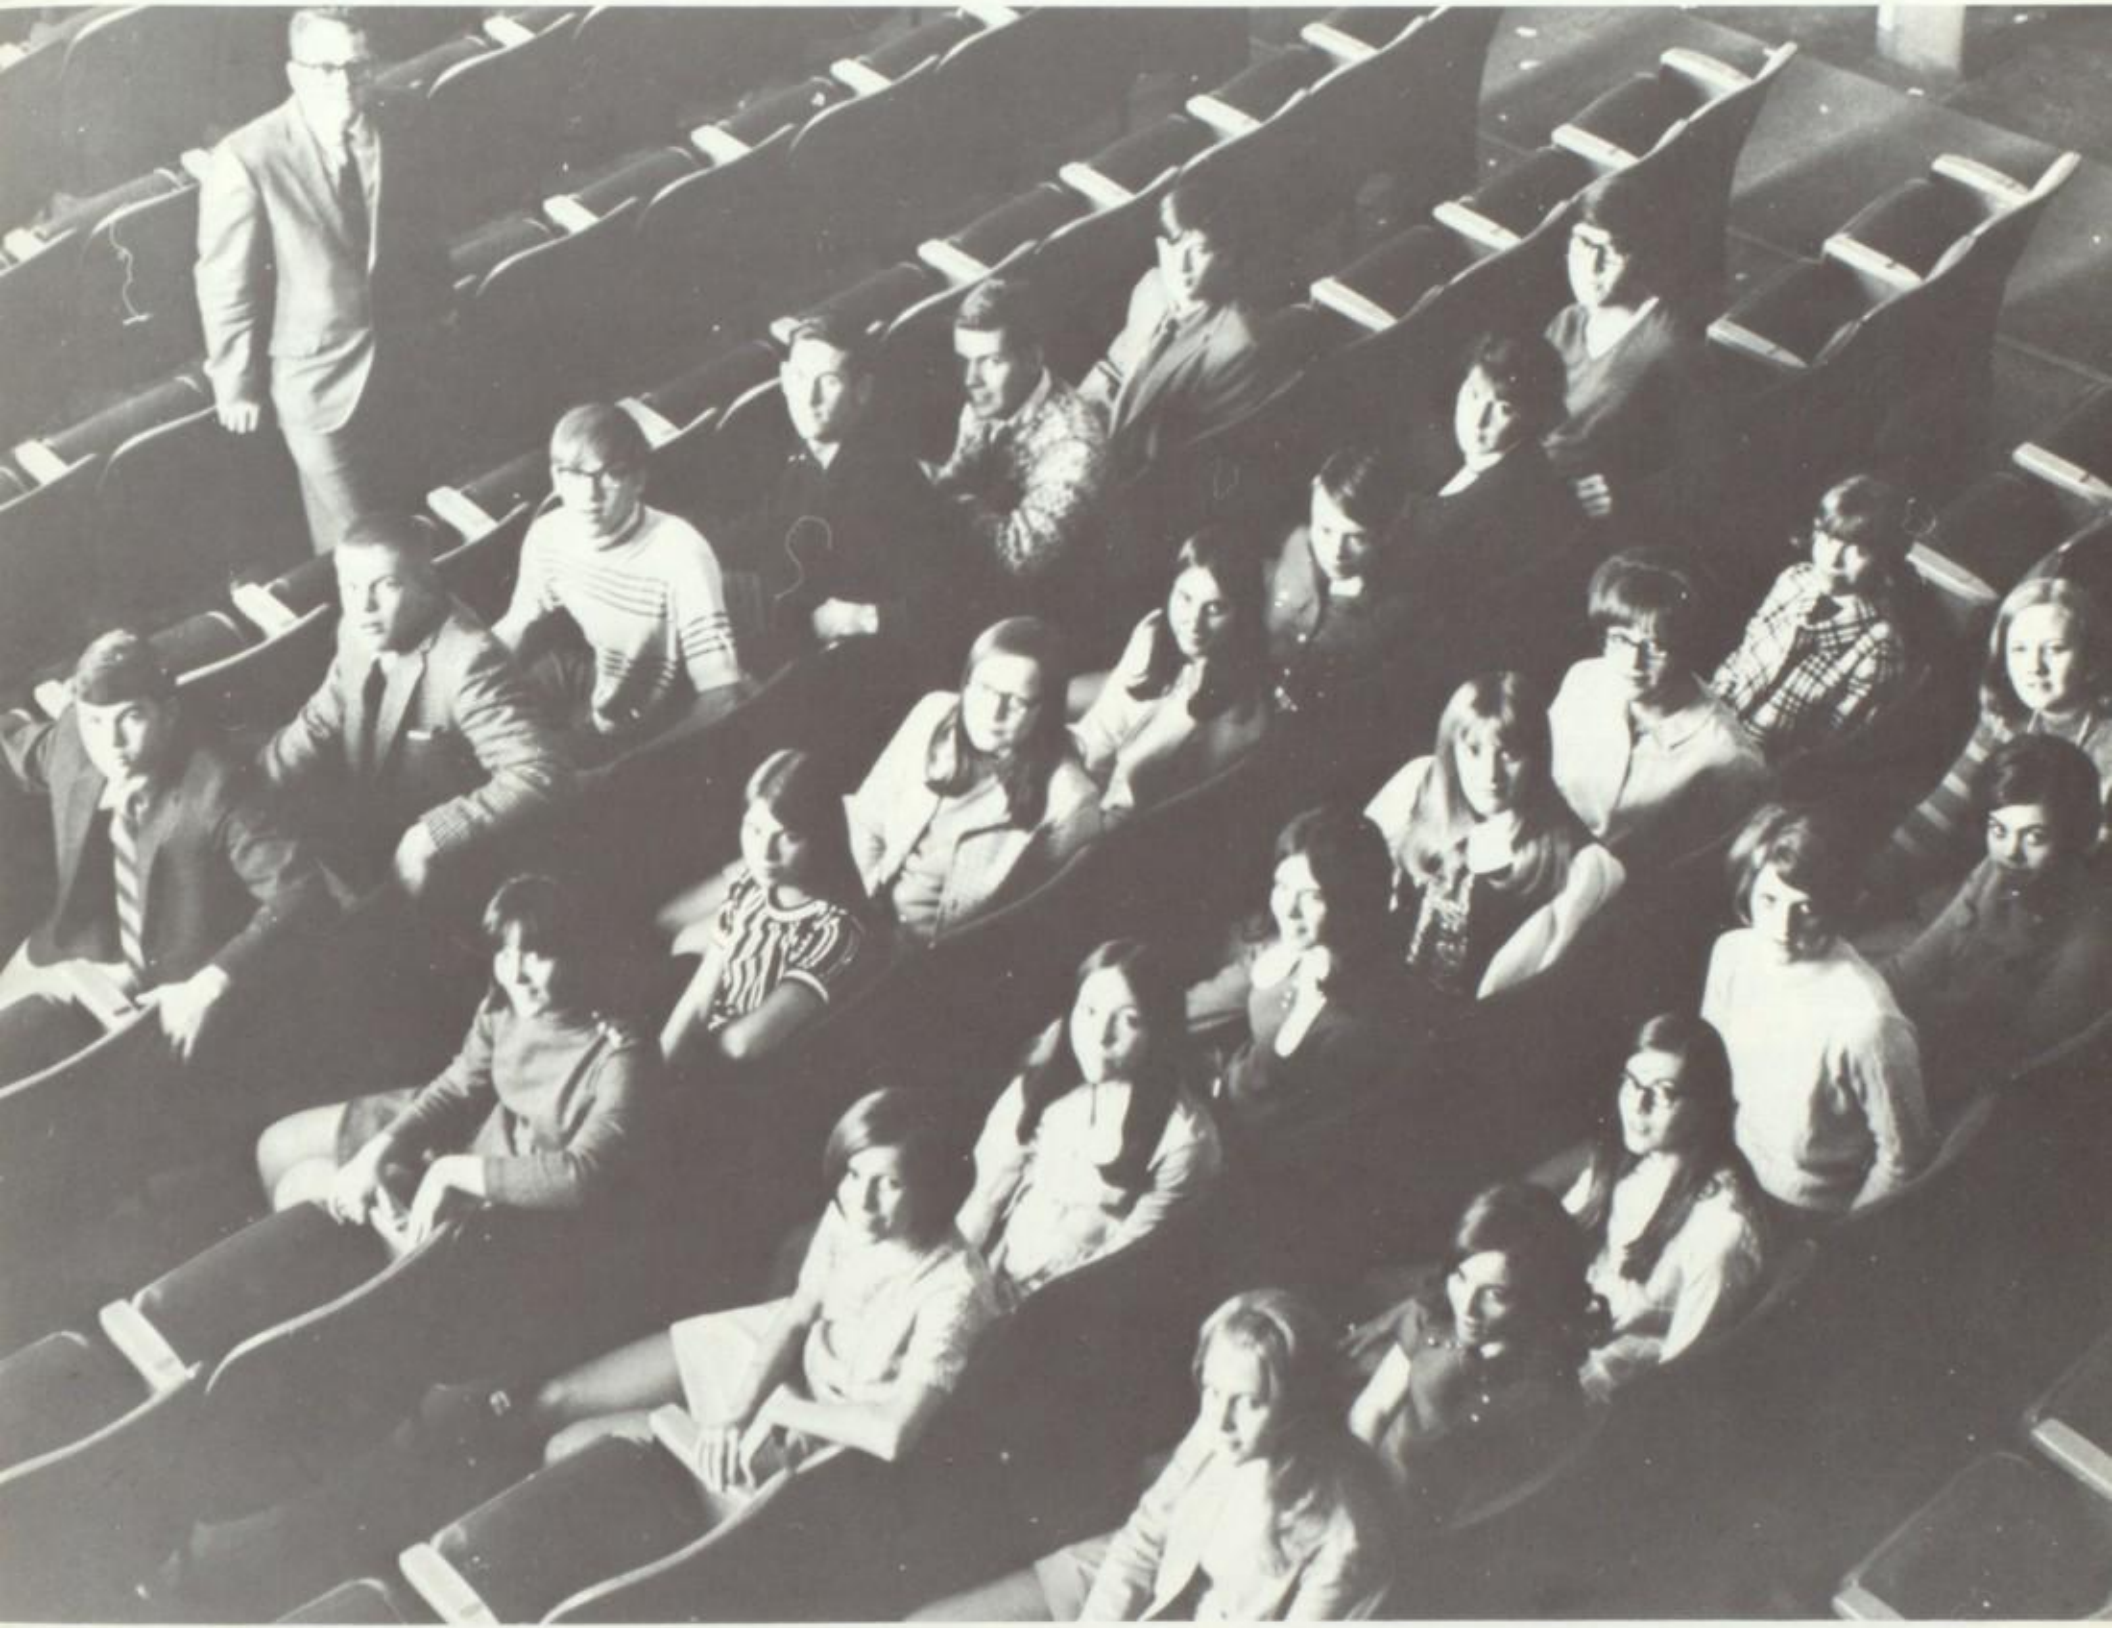

Set in the world of high society, "Pillow Talk" revolved around the telephone — be it a bright green or soft pink. At the center of the plot was the party line shared by a fashionable interior decorator and an eligible bachelor song writer, with the complications added by a brassy night club dancer and a "poor" millionaire who "just couldn't get ahead."

For two months, activity and excitement mounted both on stage and back stage. The climax was reached with the final performance as ticket holders giggled, chuckled and just plain laughed their way through a crisp and colorful comedy.

Thespians improve dramatic standards

THESPIAN BOARD: Jan Hutchison, scribe; Lynn Moore, president; Peggy Gough, vice-president.

Thespians is an organized group of students interested in dramatic standards. The club had a membership of thirty students, and was sponsored by Mr. Emerson MacDonald. Their main projects included performing plays, attending other play productions, sponsoring bake sales, and putting on their annual Dionysian Festival. Special awards included "Thespiant of the Year" and the honor of National Thespiant Membership.

Jan Hutchison smiles her approval at Claudia McAllaster's expert salesmanship at one of the Thespiant's money making projects.

Great Bend NFL Chapter; largest in state.

The National Forensics League is an honorary speech organization which includes debate, speech, and student congress. As a strong participant in all of these areas, Great Bend has its own chapter in this league.

In comparison with other NFL chapters in the state, Great Bend ranked first in total memberships and degrees. This standing was reached by the individual achievement of the members. Honor, Excellence, Distinction and Double Distinction are the progressive degrees granted by the National Forensic League.

The Great Bend NFL chapter hosted the District NFL-speech tournament and attended Student Congress in the Capital building at Topeka. After reaching the quarter-finals, the debaters took second in the Western District NFL contest. After the completion of the competitive season, the NFL chapter closed the year with an Awards Banquet in the spring.

GBHS debate team

Thousands of hours of practice and 1,375 hours of tournament competition yielded great benefits for the 58 members of the debate squad. Twenty-four trophies and numerous honors were awarded the squad in travels covering more than 10,000 miles of Kansas highways. Having attended many tournaments, Great Bend began the New Year by hosting its own debate tournament held on January 2 and 3.

Coached by Richard Young and guided by the NFL Executive Board, Great Bend debaters won over 380 rounds of debate. They debated among themselves and their opponents, Resolved: Should Congress prohibit unilateral U.S. military intervention in foreign countries. Aside from tournament competition the squad took on additional projects for entertainment and practice. One such project was the performances of 30 minute debates given throughout the season to various clubs and organizations in the community. The debaters also found time to relax and enjoy themselves at their fall hay rack ride and Christmas party.

Competitive Speech Classes have a successful season.

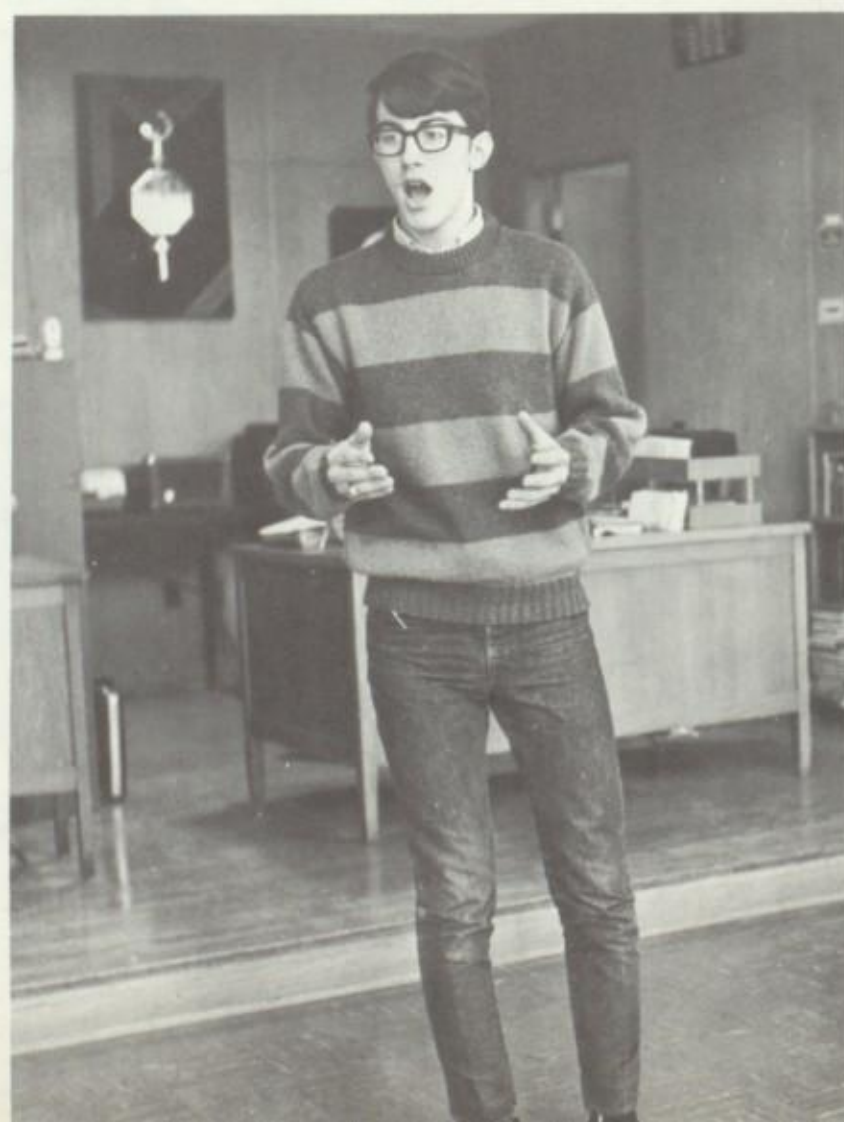

As first semester passed, the GBHS debate squad prepared for action in the competitive speech season. The areas of competition included: Extemporaneous Speaking, Impromptu, Duet, Impromptu Duet, Informative, Oratory, Radio Speaking, T.V. Speaking, Musical Comedy, Dramatic Interpretation, Poetry Interpretation, and Prose Interpretation.

The invitation speech season ended April 4, as the speech squad won 2nd place in Herrington, making the 30th trophy of the 1969-70 competitive year. This climaxed the most successful forensics season in the history of Great Bend High School. Great Bend was also honored when Peggy Gough qualified for national speech competition with her cutting from "The Rainmaker."

The Great Bend High Black Panthers ended their 1969 season with a most impressive 7-2 record. These Panthers might be called the darkhorse, or the surprise team in the league, as the scrappy Panthers clinched a lone second place spot in the WCKL. They were topped only by Dodge City. Coach Ken Peterson pointed several times to the fact that these gridders were short in number but long in spirit. This was one of the fastest teams to come out of GBHS as well as one of the best potentially. The only losses this season were an upset by Hays Cadets and a loss to Dodge City, powerhouse of the league. Great Bend scored 225 points during the season while holding their opponents to only 113. In all, the Panthers '69 had to be classified as GRR-EAT.

Three Panther wrestlers qualified for action in the State District Tournament. Wrestlers who traveled to the district were Doug Kite, Terry Scheuerman, and Jim Greene. Honors

Jane Solso spends summer in Greece.

Last summer proved to be an exciting one for Jane Solso, as she represented Great Bend High School in Trikala, Greece, where she resided with the Nik Gorgoi family as an AFS Student. She had one sister, Rena, 18, and two brothers, Andros, 15, and Bill, 11. Her entire foreign family worked in their own bicycle factory. Jane's highlight of the summer stay was her family excursion into the mountains to the remote village, Kalaritis, for a festival. She was the first American to ever visit Kalaritis.

This year two girls were picked as semifinalists for the summer AFS program. They were Jackie Sloan and Diane Borron.

SAIT AVDJI

Sait Avdji is 1969-70 Exchange Student

This year Sait Avdji, being the seventh American Field Student, arrived in Great Bend from his turkish home in Famagusta, Cyprus. He resided with the Duke C. Burt family, where he acquired Cathy, Cliff, Charles, and Doug as his American brothers and sister.

Coming to America posed many problems for Sait. His main problem seemed to be our slang. However, overlooking the difficulties, he found that being a member of Boys' Pep Club, FTA, Key Club, and Cross Country was enjoyable. One important honor for Sait was to be elected Panther Pal by the student body.

Sait enjoys an evening of television with his family Mr. Burt, Charlie, Sait, Mrs. Burt, Doug, Cathy, and Cliff.

Panther Pal

Being a part of tradition, the 1970 yearbook staff sponsored the Panther Pal elections to actuate yearbook sales.

Sophomore, junior, and senior boys were nominated in homerooms. In a preliminary election the boys were voted upon and one was elected from each of the three classes. Before school and during lunch, the student body had an opportunity to vote for the one of their choice when purchasing their yearbook.

The three boys nominated for the title of Panther Pal were Sait Avdji, senior; John Bartholomew, junior; and Danny Nobles, sophomore.

On the morning of November 14, students gathered in the gym and awaited the results with anticipation as the three candidates were escorted onto the gym floor. Sait Avdji was announced as the 1969 — 1970 Panther Pal and was presented with an engraved identification bracelet. John and Danny were presented with engraved tie tacks.

Break in tradition adds excitement to 1969 homecoming festivities

The 1969-70 Football Homecoming marked an exciting change in Great Bend High School tradition. Homecoming festivities began two days before the official homecoming date of November 14, when the candidates were introduced and voted on in a morning assembly. Queen Lisa Schumacher was crowned before the student body on Friday morning and the crowd roared its approval as Mike Gilliland bestowed Lisa with the traditional kiss. The homecoming royalty then reigned over the remainder of the day's activities, which included the all school parade through the downtown area, the homecoming game, and the traditional homecoming dance.

Morning crowning of Queen highlights 1970 Basketball Homecoming

The thought of victory occupied the minds of all the G.B.H.S. fans on the day of the 1970 Basketball Homecoming. With the theme "Everything's coming up victories" the 1970 Homecoming honored the boys who gave the Panthers their 1st place position in league play.

Lanky Doug Thurman bestowed the traditional kiss on petite Queen Leslie Midgorden and escorted her to her throne of gigantic pastel flowers before the student body at a special morning assembly. Queen Leslie and her court then reigned over the game, which the Panthers won, and the homecoming dance.

RHOREA King and Queen reign over Jr.-Sr. Prom

Surrounded by the atmosphere of a "Garden at Day-break" the members of the Senior Class were honored by the juniors at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. The highlight of the evening came when the RHOREA King and Queen were announced. After bestowing each other with a congratulatory kiss, King C. W. Guthrie and Queen Rita Hammerschmidt reigned over the remaining Prom festivities.

SPRING, 1970

INTRODUCTION

What happens to the "Rhorea" Staff when the last caption is written, the last picture is cropped, and it's no longer necessary to grab a photographer by the belt loop, force him against the wall and patiently explain that it shouldn't take a month and a half to develop one picture? Nothing happens—unless by chance you have an overly energetic staff who is never quite satisfied, or if that's not the case, a driving force like Mr. Mohn smiling devilishly from behind his grade book. Whatever the reason, all hopes of goofing off the remainder of the year by studying or winning back the friendship of fellow staff members is forgotten and all time is now donated to the production of one last publication.

So the muddled minds and exhausted imaginations go back to work. Our goal—to produce a magazine that will represent every member of Great Bend High School. This work is a view from behind the camera lens of the things that you do and things that you believe. It is dedicated to those who didn't make Homecoming Queen, captain of the football team, or lead in the Junior Play. "The Lens" is written to YOU—the typical student who attends classes every day, flunks an occasional test, and is too smart to smoke marijuana.

Born from the sweat, the frustration, and the joys of the last few months of this school year is "The Lens" . . . a new idea from a new generation.

RHOREA: It Could Have Stayed "The Bee-Hive" or "The Bender!"

Rhorea, Rhorea
rip-ra-ruh
Great Bend High School
Old Rose and Blue.

Old rose and blue? Yes, in 1920 students at Great Bend High School sang this refrain as their school song. Although the origin of the word "Rhorea" is not known, its connection with the yearbook can be traced. The 1920 yearbook staff sponsored a contest to name their annual and the name "Rhorea" was chosen.

But that 1920 production was not the first yearbook published at GBHS. According to records in the high school office, the first annual was produced in 1911 and titled "The Bee Hive." It included pictures of the class of 1911 along with photos of underclassmen. The history of the class of 1911 was recorded along with a prophecy for the future. The work on the 94 page paperback book was done by interested students after school.

In 1912 the yearbook changed its name in what seemed to be an attempt to associate the annual with the county. "The Bee Hive" was abandoned and "The Bartonian" was born. Humor was the key word to describe "The Bartonian." It included awards for the laziest man, the worst fusser and of course the worst bluffer. An editor's note was included, proudly proclaiming "The Bartonian" as the permanent name of the GBHS annual.

The following year the yearbook was called "The Bender." During the four years it hung around, "The Bender" was loaded with many interesting sections. The 1914 Bender included the last will and testament of the Senior class and the following years annual included the favorite songs of that day.

But alas, in 1917 the yearbook straightened out and "The Bender" was gone. The 1917 and 1918 publications were small paperback books called the "Senior Memorandum," containing pictures and sections devoted exclusively to the Seniors.

The history of the Great Bend High School yearbook becomes clouded in the year 1919. In that year the first school newspaper was published. The newspaper, named "The Sandburr," was published in four issues which seemed to serve both as a newspaper and a yearbook.

In 1920 the annual claimed it's present name, the "Rhorea." The original "Rhorea" included class sections, clubs, athletics, and a dedication to the "pioneers of Kansas." As in previous years, the book was produced after school by interested students.

The 1921 "Rhorea" included the same sections as that of it's predecessor. The next year, however, there was no "Rhorea" produced. Due to a lack of funds the staff was only able to produce the "Les Memoires," which contained information about the graduating Seniors.

In 1923 the "Rhorea" returned following the same format as the original. It also included pages devoted to the class of 1922.

In the following years, the "Rhorea" continued to be produced and each year it changed in a few ways. The 1931 yearbook contained comic strips portraying different events. In 1936 the first boy cheerleader was elected, and in 1939 the A Cappella Choir made it's appearance. Three boy cheerleaders were chosen in 1947 and the 1957 Rhorea contained the first color pages. From 1948 until 1969 the yearbook was under the supervision of Miss Alice Unruh.

In 1953, GBHS had a camera club which was sponsored by Mr. Lester Spong. The club earned money to buy equipment for the high school dark room. A science club and a safety club were included in the 1962 Rhorea and in 1969 a special page was included to honor Miss Unruh for her years as yearbook adviser.

The first Rhorea Queen was crowned in 1926, but no explanation for the new honor was given until 1930 when the throne was shared by the new Rhorea King. It was then revealed that the Rhorea

Mr. Lester Spong, senior faculty member, reminisces past years while looking at Rhoreas.

Dick Marsh of the '70' staff interviews Mrs. Ben Craig, the 1920 Rhorea Staff member who named the yearbook.

King and Queen election was a gimmick to promote sales of the yearbook. Each student who purchased a "Rhorea" was entitled to vote for the King and Queen candidate of his choice.

Throughout the years, the "Rhorea" royalties reign appeared to increase in importance. In the eyes of most GBHS students the "Rhorea" King and Queen became the King and Queen of the prom. The "Rhorea" staff realized this connection and in search of a new sales gimmick the first "Panther Pal" was elected in 1961. As with the King and Queen each student voted for Panther Pal upon the purchase of his "Rhorea." The Rhorea King and Queen remain but with no connection to the yearbook.

The 1970 "Rhorea" was again marked by change. Senior pictures were made smaller and acknowledgements were put in the back of the book. The 1970 yearbook emphasized school life through candid photography. Instead of presenting the 1970 spring activities in the 1971 annual, the yearbook staff produced this issue of "The Lens." Published in magazine form, "The Lens" includes a supplement to the "Rhorea" and also stories of interest to GBHS students. "The Lens" received its name from the journalism yearbook class and is the first publication of its kind in the school history.

In fifty years of publication the Great Bend High School yearbook has been advised, supervised and revised. In each of its productions it has attempted to present to the students of GBHS an accurate account of the school year. But as long as the "Rhorea" is in existence the origin of its name will continue to be a mystery.

Students Work Long Hours After School

Student jobs range from paper boys to waitresses, from farm hands to cooks, from janitors to nurse's aides and many more. The student sitting next to you may help you find that right dress or shirt or may cook those hamburgers you enjoy eating so much.

THE LENS conducted a survey a few weeks ago concerning student employees. The following chart is the statistical results.

GROUP	NUMBER
Working students at GBHS . . .	262
Working students (male)	154
Working students (female)	73

The type of job most frequently listed was that involved with sales, production and distribution of food. 44% of all working students worked in this area.

54% of the students worked 10-25 hours per week. The average number of working hours per week was 20. Lonnie Foos claimed the most work hours at 50 per week. Others who reported 40 or more work hours per week were:

Mike Gilliland, Vic Herl, Raymond McNett, David Peacock, Richard Powers, Perry Scheuerman, Taylor Smith, Richard Walker, and Don Wagner.

Some students enjoy their work so much that they are going into this field as an occupation. Perry Scheuerman (Komarek's Jewelry) plans to attend the Joseph Bulova Watch-Making School in New York this fall and continue in the jewelry business. Sally Rondeau (Hurlburt's Flowers) was awarded a scholarship to the Cliff Mann Floral School in Denver and after graduation plans to pursue a florist career. Deb Turner (CKMC lab) plans to go into a science-related field.

*Let's never grow up!
We'll fly away like Peter Pan,
except let's go farther,
We'll sprinkle ourselves with adventure dust
and head towards the sky,
Oh, we'll stop and tell the man in the moon hello,
And if we get tired, we'll sit atop the nearest star and watch the universe whirl by,
If we like it, maybe we'll stay on our star forever,
Just sprinkling stardust down to earth.*

LAST MOMENT THOUGHTS

A tear creeps down.
 You suddenly realize you're an adult.
 The responsibility for your life has become completely yours.
 In what direction will you go?
 What lies beyond tomorrow?
 Will the years ahead provide security and fulfillment,
 Or will they be filled with questions and doubt?
 When the time comes to reach out for that diploma
 Will you be truly ready to receive it?
 Ready to enter a world that is ever-changing?
 Have you gained from high school all you had hoped to,
 Or are you still searching for something you just can't grasp?
 You know that it is time to decide.
 But the question remains, "Am I ready to?"

"I'm Seventeen; You're Forty-two"

I'm seventeen; you're forty-two.
I'm going to college next year; you've already been through.
I'm single and have no kids; you're married and have two.
I like to go to movies that are symbolic; you like those that are entertaining.

Obviously, my parents, there are established differences between us. But what about those that are not established, those dealing with how we communicate? The more I talk to you the more I realize we don't understand each other. I see our conflicting interpretation of the movies as the clearest example of this failure to communicate.

In movies like "The Graduate," "Midnight Cowboy," and "Last Summer," I see real people. Instead, you feel these people are either part of a minority or they don't exist. You regard their presence on the screen as being repulsive. Many of the plots in these movies dealt with personalities (like Benjamin in the "Graduate,") who are confused and frustrated. We both saw a young man seduce a married woman. Alright, we both agree that it was wrong. But you saw only an immoral act, whereas I saw a young man who had been forced to do something he felt was wrong.

Has the aspect of SEX in these movies upset you to the point that it's all you remember about the show? Is this natural drive so repulsive to you? When you emphasize sex in these movies, I get the impression you feel any type of sex is repulsive, "dirty." Sex has to be accepted as a part of life, rather than being detached.

I agree that many of today's movies are not like those you enjoyed years ago. Yesterday's movies entertained by being "funny" or "cute." They stressed the "ideal" life. Personally, I think there is more to life than parties and pretty clothes. Today's movies show all aspects of life. Several times you've said these shows are cheap and worthless. I don't agree!

After seeing "Midnight Cowboy" you didn't want to admit that people exist in the midst of poverty and pain. Yes, the movie was not entertaining, but that doesn't mean it was worthless. It revealed a part of our society that we all regard as being ugly or depressing. However, I don't believe we can turn our heads and isolate ourselves from the Ratso Ricos. These people are crying for love and understanding, not sympathy and pity.

When you didn't see "Last Summer" you depended on the comments of your friends who had seen it to make your judgement. And so you judged it to be disgusting. Obviously, your friends pathetically missed the show's meaning. You know, I feel you might have found some consolation in how I interpreted this film.

The movie concerned three teenagers trying to build the perfect society, based on love, truth, and freedom. However, they neglected to include self-understanding and self-control. And when they could not control their emotions, they were destroyed.

I'm frustrated now because no matter how I try to explain, you still don't seem to understand. My friends tell me you never will. Is this true?

—Lisa Schumacher

Ask anyone about what the big problem in life is and everyone will know. UNDERSTANDING they say. People just don't understand each other. Everybody understands that understanding is what people need.

Show me. Show me a person who is truly himself . . . A person who isn't afraid to say what he is wanting to say. Everyone is fake. Some people are more fake than others. Why are people so sure they know everything. Wake up.

People ——— I'm sorry but I DON'T understand you. I don't know why you are fake. I don't know why you fight. I don't know why you all preach love but practice hate.

I don't know what my part is. I don't know why I was born. I do know that I can't go along with you people. I will not accept war when there can be peace but I will also not accept people who grow long hair and profess peace just to escape reality.

I am alone WHY?

Please don't tell me you understand because if you do I'll know you are a fake. I don't even understand.

I'm afraid. ONE in every five people is treated for mental disorders. It can't be me. How could they understand me when even I myself don't.

Is there a GOD??? Yes, but to each person he means something different — — so don't make me worship my God in a way that someone says is right. Let me worship my god when I'm in the shower, playing poker, or washing dishes. Don't send me to church every Sunday and tell me to find myself in God. I don't understand people.

People don't worry. This stray lamb will someday have to conform. I'll tell my children it's wrong to kill and then say unless you're at war. I'll tell them that the only thing wrong with this world is understanding. And when they have a problem I'll tell them that I understand.

But until that day comes people—don't tell me that you UNDERSTAND. Please— — —

I'M ALONE.

I'M AFRAID.

And God I don't understand.

"UNDERSTANDING"

It's Assemblies That Make Our School Likeable

(With apologies to the raisin bran people)

It's assemblies that make
Great Bend High School
so exciting

It's assemblies that make
Great Bend High School
so different

More assemblies

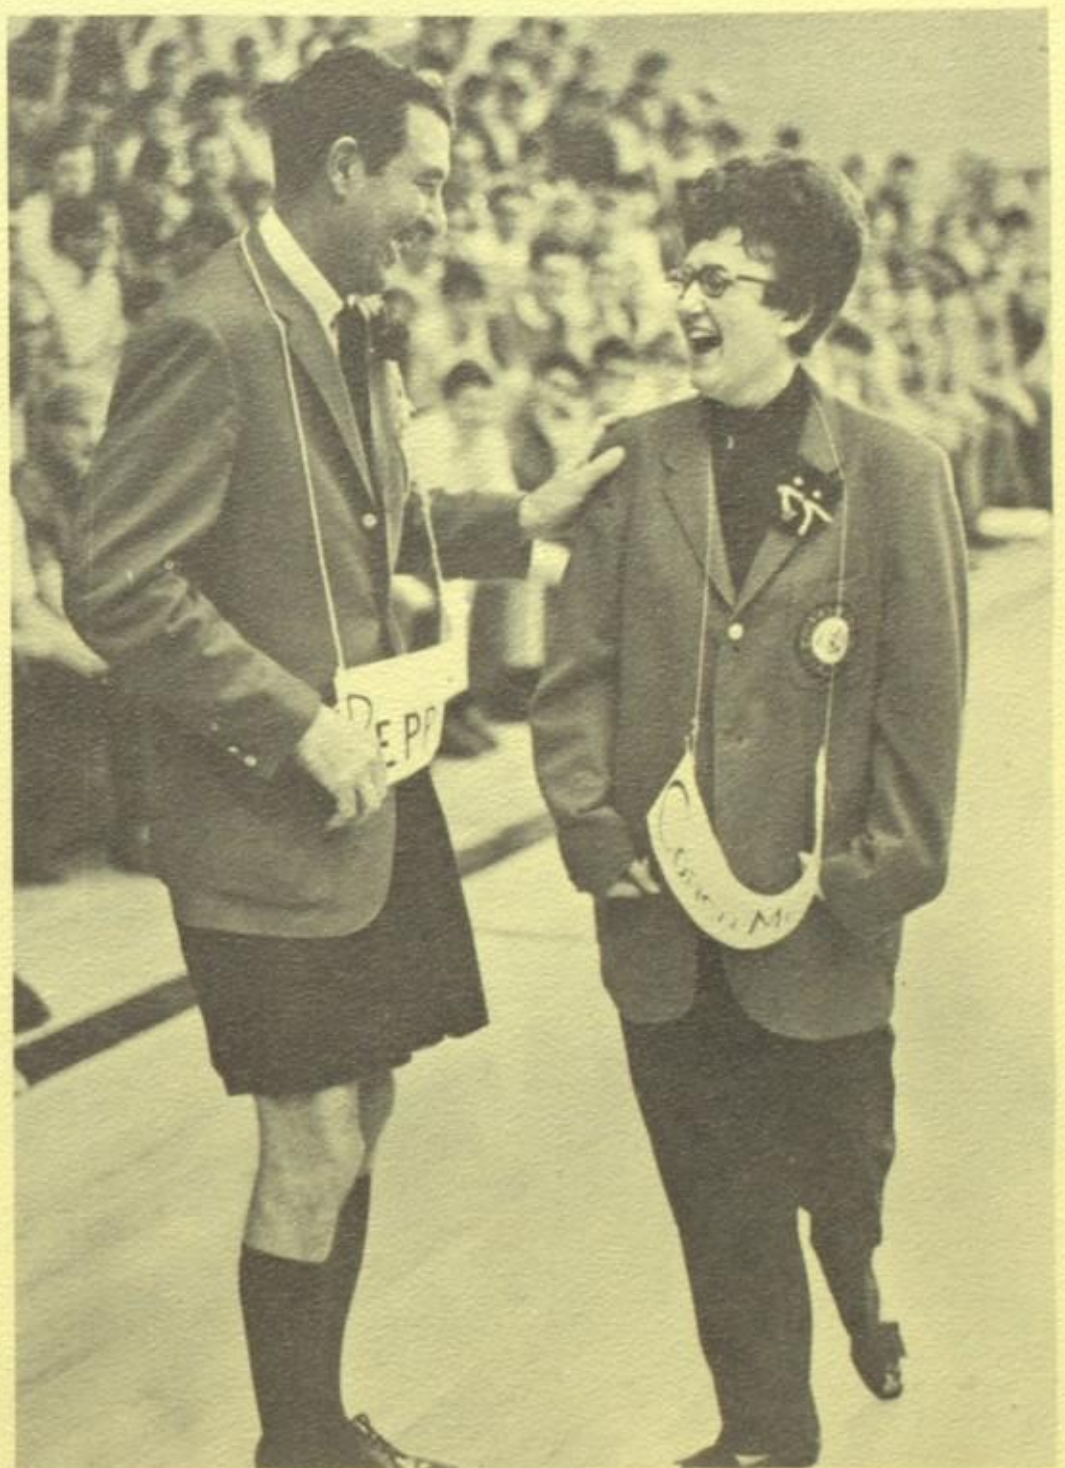

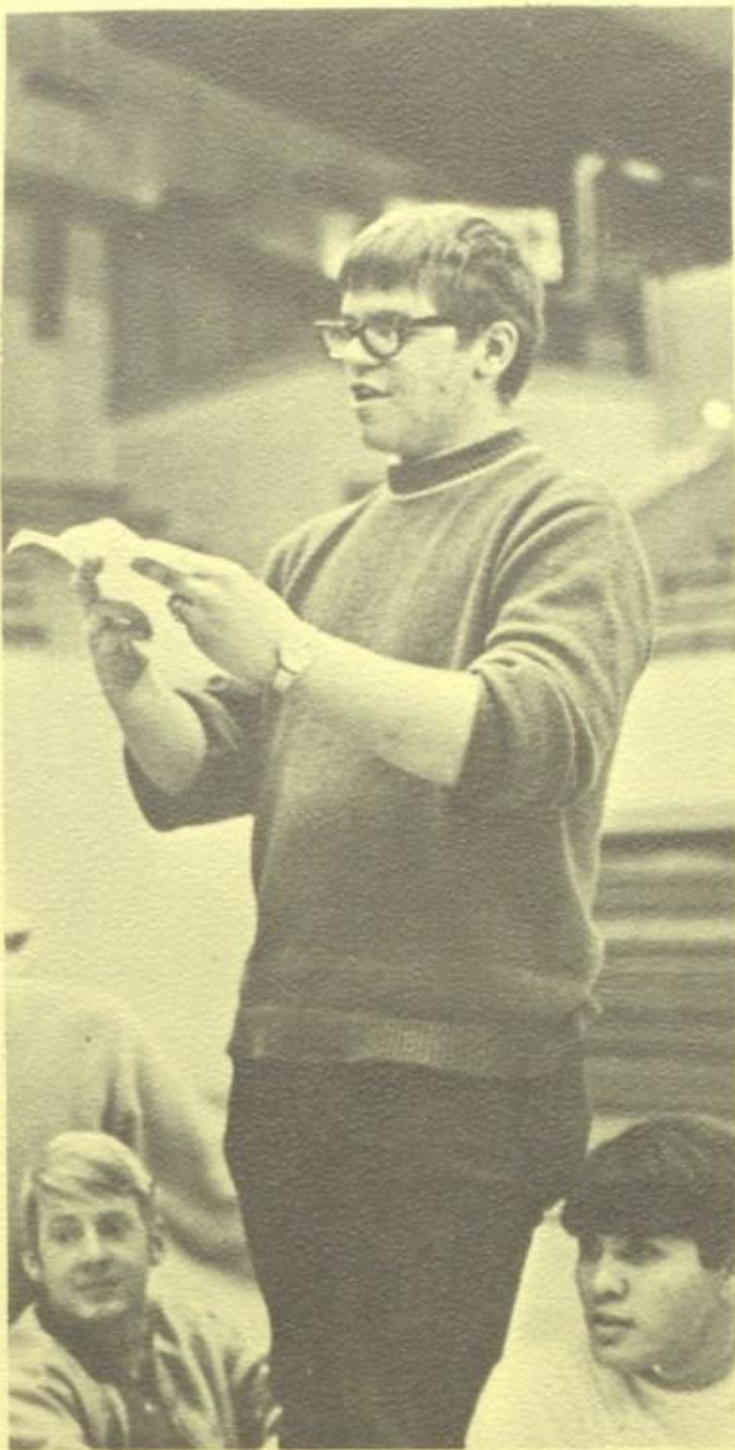

Much more assemblies

Than any other high school

So if you like assemblies, interesting,
lively assemblies,

You'll like our
Great Bend High School

Alma Mater

On the plains of Central Kansas
Glorious to view,
Great Bend High School is proudly standing
Hail, all hail to you!
Rhorea cheers ever onward,
Famous Panthers black.
Hail to you our Alma Mater,
Hail, old Red and Black!
Rhor-ea, Rhore-a
Rip, Hah, Ra-ck
Great Bend High School
Red and Bla-ck!

School Creed

We, the members of the student body of Great Bend High School, believe in democracy, high scholarship, in good sportsmanship, and in the necessity of dynamic school spirit.

Our leaders represent our highest standards; our building we protect with pride from defacement; our teams we support—win, lose, or draw.
